Dear Charlie + Patrick

Many thanks for your continuing support of our research work into melanoma here at the Marsden. Yet again, Penguins Against Cancer have been hugely generous to us and we are enormously grateful. Please pass the thanks of myself and the other consultants on the team, Dr James Larkin, Dr Samra Turajlic on to all those who have given so generously.

We have been making enormous strides in the treatment of metastatic melanoma over the last 5 years and the landscape has really changed for our patients. We now have about half our patients with metastatic disease surviving 5 years and longer in many cases but that still leaves many patients for whom we need to find new and much more effective treatments. We are completely dedicated to translating laboratory research into the clinic and support such as yours really does make a difference to our efforts.

Once again many thanks to everyone at Penguins Against Cancer, your help really is hugely appreciated.

with best wishes

Martin
