Dear Mr. Beardmore,

Thank you very much to Penguins Against Cancer for their £4000.00 donation and to Nick Gibbins for attempting to break the World Burpee Record to raise the funds. I am writing to confirm that we have received the amount outlined above.

To illustrate the positive impact of your support, we can confirm that this year's grant awards equate to £1.4m in additional research investment to fill key gaps in our knowledge of prostate cancer:

- Targeting signalling to stop cancer spread – Dr Toby Pheffe and Dr Helen Pearson (Cardiff University)
- Targeting specific sugars to stop cancer spread – Dr Jennifer Munkley (Newcastle University)
- Investigating the proteins that drive cancer spread and treatment resistance – Dr Kirsteen Campbell (Beatson Institute, Glasgow)
- Developing software to predict which cancers will return – Dr Anna Wilkins and Dr Erik Sahai (Francis Crick Institute, London)
- Exploring the link between fat and cancer – Dr Claire Fletcher and Professor Charlotte Bevan (Imperial College London)

We have also announced our racial disparities grant call which follows on from our partnership with Linford Christie OBE and healthcare provider GenesisCare to identify inequalities in patient experiences and outcomes. The successful applications for funding will be announced next year and will mark an important step in improving diagnosis and treatment for all men.

None of our vital work could happen without our community of fundraisers, and we are invested with a responsibility to spend all donations wisely. Translating research from the lab to the patient takes time, money and commitment, and this is why we are so grateful for all support.

Thank you very much again. Please do get in touch with any queries.

Yours sincerely,

Eurydice Dupré, Events & Community Assistant
